

Character Sheet: Dr. Thomas Weber

Case

Location:

Kiel, a small coastal town famous for its naval history and boat-building traditions

Victim Name:

Erik von Hagen

Summary:

During the annual Kiel Week celebration, Erik von Hagen was found dead during dinner aboard his yacht. The Red Berry Pudding served at the meal is believed to have contained a toxic substance, linking the murder to corruption in the maritime industry where he had long-standing conflicts.

Timeline:

The crime took place around midnight on the evening of August 12th, as guests were finishing their dessert during the Kiel Week celebration dinner.

Victim Description:

42, marine engineer, known for his controversial views on shipbuilding standards

Character Details

Name:

Dr. Thomas Weber

Appearance:

A distinguished man in his early fifties, with a kind face and a serious demeanor.

Occupation:

Toxicologist

Relation To Victim:

Consultant

Personality Traits:

- analytical - ethical

Background:

Dr. Weber was called to the scene after Erik's death to analyze the Red Berry Pudding. He had a reputation for being meticulous in his work. [doc1]

Murderer Label:

No

Image Path:

image_tool/image_output\Dr._Thomas_Weber.png