

Character Sheet: Erik von Hagen

Case

Location:

Kiel, a small coastal town famous for its naval history and boat-building traditions

Victim Name:

Erik von Hagen

Summary:

During the annual Kiel Week celebration, Erik von Hagen was found dead during dinner aboard his yacht. The Red Berry Pudding served at the meal is believed to have contained a toxic substance, linking the murder to corruption in the maritime industry where he had long-standing conflicts.

Timeline:

The crime took place around midnight on the evening of August 12th, as guests were finishing their dessert during the Kiel Week celebration dinner.

Victim Description:

42, marine engineer, known for his controversial views on shipbuilding standards

Character Details

Name:

Erik von Hagen

Appearance:

A distinguished man in his late forties, with a stern expression and piercing eyes.

Occupation:

Marine engineer

Relation To Victim:

Victim

Personality Traits:

- controversial - knowledgeable

Background:

Known for his controversial views on shipbuilding standards, he often clashed with peers over safety protocols. [doc1]

Murderer Label:

No

Image Path:

image_tool/image_output\Erik_v on_Hagen.png