

Character Clues (Cutout Pages)

Lars Kiel

About Mira Schmidt:

Lars noted that Mira Schmidt was reviewing the dessert menu with Elena at 17:00, but later appeared distracted during the dessert course, suggesting she may have known the knife was embedded in the pudding before it was discovered.

Mira Schmidt

About Julian Voss:

Mira observed Julian quietly observing the dessert course, but he was not seen reacting when Elena took a bite - a possible oversight suggesting he might have known the knife was already in place.

Julian Voss

About Anya Petrova:

Julian noted Anya Petrova was the only one who announced the Red Berry Pudding at 19:00, yet no one questioned why the knife was embedded in the pudding - a detail inconsistent with proper dessert course etiquette.

Anya Petrova

About Silas Rainer:

Anya Petrova was seen discussing the controversial exhibit restoration with Silas Rainer at 19:00, yet Silas Rainer was not present during the dessert course - a gap suggesting he may have been the one who placed the knife.

Thomas Grün

About Elena's Assistant:

Thomas Grün was present during the dessert course, yet no one noticed the knife was embedded in the pudding - a detail inconsistent with Elena's Assistant's calm demeanor, suggesting they may have known the knife was in place.

Silas Rainer

About Thomas Grün:

Silas Rainer and Thomas Grün were both present during the dessert course, yet neither reacted when Elena took a bite - a moment of silence that contradicts the usual behavior of a dessert course, suggesting they may have known the knife was already in place.

Elena's Assistant

About Anya Petrova:

Elena's Assistant was present during the dessert course and noted Anya Petrova was the only one who announced the Red Berry Pudding - a detail that contradicts the usual course etiquette, suggesting Anya Petrova may have been the one who placed the knife.
